

Attention Men!

THE PITTSBURGH EXPERIMENT is pleased to invite you to the

2011 Fall Men's Retreat

October 7 and 8 at Laurelville Conference and Retreat Center

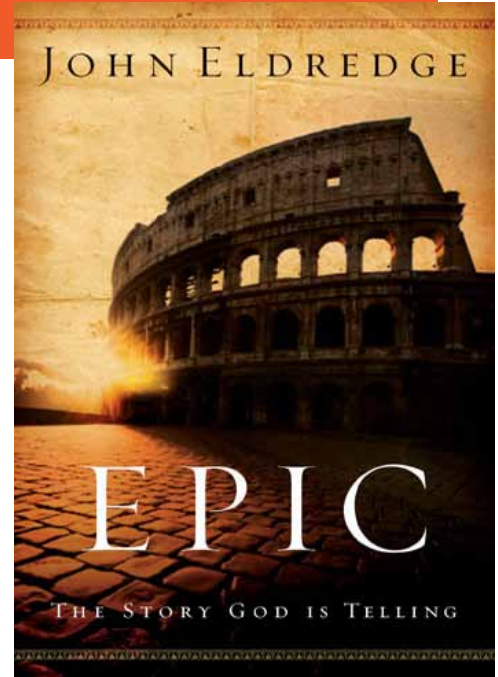

Led by Kerry Fraas

Our theme for the weekend is:

John Eldredge's presentation of

Epic: The Story God is Telling, based on his best-selling book by the same name.

The Fall Men's Retreat sponsored by The Pittsburgh Experiment promises to be an "epic" event. We're not just saying that. We will be focused on John Eldredge's presentation of "Epic: The Story God is Telling," based on his best-selling book by the same name. You may know John Eldredge from his numerous best-sellers for Christian men, like "Wild at Heart," "The Journey of Desire," and "Walking With God." If you've read his stuff, you know he has his finger on the pulse of what it means to be a Christian man.

Mark the date. October 7-8, 2011 at the Laurelville Mennonite Church Center. The retreat will begin Friday evening at 7:00 PM and end Saturday by 4:00 PM.

As always with an Experiment retreat, there will be lots of hanging out with the guys, a memorable campfire and, this time, Eldredge's classic telling of the story of what God is doing in this world and how it involves each and every one of us.

Do not miss this retreat. Bring friends. Expect God to touch you as we marvel at the glory of His woods in the fall and gather in small groups to consider what John Eldredge has to say to us.

Please send your reservation to Kerry Fraas, Executive Director of The Pittsburgh Experiment at the following email address: kerryfraas@yahoo.com

Cost: $150 per person — includes room and Saturday's two meals.

Payment can be made upon arrival to the Conference Center.
